MOTHER'S GROWING OLD. Her step is slow and weary.

Her hands unsteady now, And paler still, and deeper The lines upon her brow. Her meek blue eye has faded, Her hair has lost its gold, Her once firm voice now falters

My Mother's growing old. Her days of strength are over. Her earthly joys depart, Are shining in her heart; The links that bind her spirit. Relax their trembling hold, Soon she will be an angel,

Sweet Mother's growing old. My thoughts flow back to childhood When fon-Hed on her knee, I noured out all my sorrows. Or lisped my songs of glee: But now upon me leaning So wearily and cold. With trembling lips she nurrours

I think of all her counsels. So precious to my youth. How faithfully she taught me God's sacred words of truth: How tenderly she led me To Jesus' blessed fold, Where she will soon be welcome. No longer bowed and old,

"Dear child, I'm growing old,"

The path of daily duty, Was ever her delight. She walked by Faith and Patience And trusted God for sight. Her hands with useful labor, Each day their mission told, Her deeds like heav'nly roses, Still bleom though she is old. Alas! those hands so skillful

Which toiled with loving grace To make me bless'd with comforts. And home a happy place: Those dear hands pale and wrinkled, Are now by time controll'd, They rest in pracryful quiet, Dear Mother's growing old.

Yet, though her early temple Fast falleth day by day. Her soul with falth increasing. Pursues its heavenward way And when the mists of Jordan Shall from her sight be rolled, She'll shine in youth and beauty Where spirits ne'er grow old,

O Mother, fond and falthful. Thou truest earthly friend, May I be near to soothe thee Till all thy struggles end. And while with sad heart yearning. Thy form my arms enfold, I pray in peace to meet thee, Where suints no more grow old.
